

Thomas Harvey – Newspaper Clippings

THOMAS HARVEY
BEGS to inform his Friends and the Inhabitants of Leeds and its Vicinity, that he has commenced Business as a CHEMIST AND DRUGGIST, at No. 5, COMMERCIAL-STREET, and respectfully solicits a portion of their Favour, which it will be his study to deserve, by strict attention to business, and by the sale of Drugs and other Articles of the first quality.
 62 Physicians' Prescriptions and other Recipes faithfully prepared.
 12 Mo. 16th, 1837.

Saturday, Dec. 16, 1837
 Publication: Leed's Times
 Volume: 5, Issue: 250

WILLIAM WEST returns his most grateful Acknowledgments to the Public of Leeds and the Neighbourhood, for the kind and hearty Support he has received during the Twenty-four Years he has been engaged in Trade as CHEMIST and DRUGGIST, and informs them that

THOMAS HARVEY, who has been some Time Established in Commercial Street, is about to REMOVE to W. West's late Shop, No. 13, Briggate.

From the high opinion William West has of Thomas Harvey's Skill, Integrity, and Attention to Business, he confidently recommends him as likely to continue the same Principle of Keeping DRUGS and MEDICINES of superior Quality, with a greater Share of Personal Assistance in the Dispensing of Medicines, than W. West's Professional Engagements have at Times enabled him to bestow.

Leeds, 9th Mo. 9, 1840.

THOMAS HARVEY presents his sincere Thanks to his Friends and the Public for the kind and liberal Encouragement he has received since his Commencement as a CHEMIST and DRUGGIST, at No. 5, COMMERCIAL STREET. He begs to inform them that, as soon as Arrangements can be made, his BUSINESS will be TRANSFERRED to the Extensive and Convenient Premises at No. 13, BRIGGATE, lately occupied by WILLIAM WEST; and that in the mean time it will be carried on as usual at his present Establishment.

T. H. ventures to solicit the continued Support both of his own Friends and those of his respected Predecessor, which it will be his constant study to deserve.

Leeds, 9th Mo. 9, 1840.

 PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITS from Life of the QUEEN, PRINCE ALBERT, and the Members of the ROYAL FAMILY; LOUIS NAPOLEON, EUGENIE, and other eminent English and Foreign Celebrities, Price 1s. 6d. to 2s. 6d. each, Post Free, from HARVEY, REYNOLDS, and FOWLER, Depot for Scientific Apparatus, 10, Briggate, Leeds.
 The most faithful Series of Portraits yet Published.

Saturday, Aug. 25, 1860
 Publication: Leeds Intelligencer
 Volume: 107, Issue: 2898

THE ROYAL ALBUM.—A very elegant and massively bound little volume, with gilded clasps and mountings, and containing photographic likenesses of the Queen, the Prince Consort and the Royal children, has been published by Messrs. Harvey, Reynolds, and Fowler, of Briggate. There are fourteen photographs, some with groups of two, and some with single figures, each individual being taken singly and together with another, except the Princes Alfred and Leopold, who are given but once. These photographs are taken from the life, and hence are highly interesting and valuable, besides being very carefully and well executed. The album has spare leaves for additional photographs, and the leaves are so formed as to receive the pictures and hold them in their places without the use of gum or paste. Altogether this Royal Album is a very graceful and attractive device.

On the 16th instant, at the Friends' Meeting House, near Briggate, Thomas Harvey, Esq. chemist and druggist, Leeds, to Sarah Grace, daughter of Joseph Fryer, Esq. of Toothill Grove, near Huddersfield.

Saturday, Oct. 25, 1845
 Publication: Leed's Times
 Volume: 13, Issue: 658

THE FEARFUL DISASTER IN REGENT'S PARK. GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

[FROM OUR LONDON REPORTER.]

LONDON, Wednesday Afternoon.

The sad calamity which the metropolis heard of with horror last night as the darkness came down and shrouded it, has not assumed a more satisfactory aspect since the sun rose. From the experience one has to-day derived as a spectator of the attempts to recover the bodies, little doubt can be entertained that the loss of life is at least as great as was last night stated in the more moderate estimate; while no one will wonder if it fully equals what was regarded by many as the most extravagant. It was with a sort of vague incredulity that people heard for hours after the occurrence of the disaster that thirty people had been drowned. The first of this and the first week of the year has accustomed Londoners to frequent and wholesale immersion, and the success which has hitherto attended every effort at rescue has led them to believe that the power of the Humane Society is equal to all emergencies. Every day since there has been formed a sheet of ice of sufficient thickness to bear the weight of the crowds of the foolhardy who flocked to it, the papers have recorded instances of the fragile covering giving way, of numbers being thrown into dangerous waters, of easy scrambles to

Thursday, Jan. 17, 1867

Publication: Leeds Mercury

Issue: 8974

(Special Telegram.)

Up to five o'clock, when dragging for the bodies closed for the day, thirty-four bodies had been recovered. Of these the twenty-four recovered yesterday were all identified.

The following is a

LIST OF THE DROWNED.

Thomas Harvey, jun., aged 17, second son of Mr. Thos. Harvey, of the firm of Harvey and Reynolds, chemists, Leeds. The deceased was a student at University College, London, and lodged with his private tutor in Torrington-square. The young gentleman spent his Christmas holidays in Leeds, and only returned to London a few days ago.

Mr. Thomas Wilson Spencer, of Keble...

The inhabitants of Leeds will see with deep regret that the first name in the list of those who perished is that of the son of a highly-respected fellow-townsmen—Mr. Thomas Harvey, of the firm of Messrs. Harvey and Reynolds, chemists, Briggate. The young gentleman who has lost his life was Mr. Harvey's second son, and was seventeen years of age. He was studying at University College, London, and the London address given is that of his private tutor. Mr. Harvey was at home for the Christmas holidays, and only returned to town a few days ago. His untimely end has, we need hardly say, plunged his family into the deepest affliction. Mr. Thomas Wilson Spencer, of Keble...

Saturday, Jan. 19, 1867

Publication: Leeds Times

Volume: 34, Issue: 1765

THE WEST INDIES IN 1837—We have the gratification to announce that the work under this title, to which the cause of Negro emancipation is so deeply indebted, has already arrived at a second edition: the sale of the first has been unusually rapid. The estimable authors, Joseph Sturge, Esq., and Mr. Thomas Harvey, of this town, are enabled in the preface to the new edition to appeal with perfect confidence to all that has transpired since their statements first saw the light, in proof of their strict accuracy,—in many cases, rather, in proof that they said less than the whole truth as to certain illustrations of the evils flowing from the Apprenticeship, which they witnessed. The work, so valuable from the numerous facts it discloses, is made still more useful by the beautiful maps now appended, and by matter recently added. The postscript, in reply to an intemperate attack on the veracity of their details concerning Arcadia estate in Jamaica, is in a fine spirit, and (so far as our judgment goes) unanswerable. The general appearance of the volume is attractive.

Saturday, Mar. 24, 1838

Publication: Leeds Mercury

Issue: 5438

FRIENDS' MISSION TO JAMAICA.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE LEEDS MERCURY.

RESPECTED FRIENDS.—The West India Mail has brought me valuable enclosures from my friends Thomas Harvey and William Brewin, who are diligently engaged in the prosecution of their mission as an independent deputation from the Society of Friends, having a large reference at the present crisis to the condition of Jamaica, socially, morally, and industrially, as well as with regard to education and Christian instruction.

From a variety of interesting material, we select the following as bearing on subjects now so painfully occupying public attention.

Our friend narrates a visit to the gaol at Spanish Town, which he describes as a cleanly and well-managed institution, but containing many boys and men as prisoners under the new law, for pilfering small quantities of provisions, such as picking up a fruit of inappreciable value, or taking a sugar-cane while at work on the field, practices which long-established custom until recently allowed. Some of the lightest of these offences are now punished by magistrates (owners or overseers) by two or three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Monday, Mar. 26, 1866

Publication: Leeds Mercury

Issue: 8720

THE LEEDS MERCURY.

THE letter from MR. THOMAS HARVEY which we publish in another column, with reference to the famine in Finland, puts our readers in possession of facts of the deepest interest, both as to the extent of the famine, its severity, and its terrible effects on the people upon whom it has fallen. The general character of the distress which has followed from the successive failures of the harvests in Finland has been described from various sources, but we seem to have failed, in a great measure, to appreciate the gravity of the circumstances and the urgent necessity for assistance. The inhabitants, including farmers possessed of land, have been driven to have "recourse to meal "ground from straw to mitigate their hunger," and they have paid the penalty in "painful bowel complaints, tumours, dropsy, and death." Bread has also been made of hay, of stems of peas, and of husks of malt, but these wretched substitutes have failed to stay the progress of the famine, and it has swept before it the inhabitants of whole villages, whose lifeless and emaciated bodies have alone remained to memorialise at once their past existence and their suffering. This state of things continues, and help is urgently needed. There are means of alleviating this suffering, but money is wanted to apply them, and to those who can afford this aid the letter of Mr. Harvey appeals not only with the weight of his authority, but with all the eloquence of necessity.

Tuesday, Apr. 14, 1868

Publication: Leeds Mercury

Issue: 9361

ELECTION OF OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

The annual election of overseers of the poor for the various townships in the borough of Leeds, took place at the Court-house, on Saturday last. The Magistrates present were—J. D. Luccock, Esq., (the Mayor), J. R. Atkinson, Esq., Edward Baines, Esq., Richard Bramley, Esq., John Clapham, Esq., George Goodman, Esq., Henry Hall, Esq., James Holdforth, Esq., Ralph Markland, Esq., D. W. Nell, Esq., Wm. Smith, Esq., and Hamer Stansfeld, Esq.

The election was conducted upon the same principles as for some years previously, namely, that of choosing an equal number of each political party, at the same time having regard to the eligibility of the persons nominated.

The following is a full list of the persons elected :—

OUT-TOWNSHIPS.

HUNSLET.—John Rayner, dyer; Enoch Blackburn, contractor; Richard Dobson, maltster; John Dale, market gardener.

HOLBECK.—Benjamin Woolley, bricklayer; Robert Sowrey, shopkeeper; Benj. Pickles, drysalter; John Woodhouse, manufacturer.

BEESTON.—John Charter, farrier; James Greenwood, manufacturer.

ARMLEY.—Thomas Topham, maltster; Uriah Simpson, linen draper.

WORTLEY.—John Oddy, shopkeeper; Henry Slater, gentleman.

FARNLEY.—Thomas Holdsworth, stone merchant; Thos. Ingham, listing manufacturer.

BRAMLEY.—Wm. Tattersall and Robt. Holdsworth.

CHAPEL-ALLERTON.—John Mawson, farmer; J. Y. Knight, stationer.

POTTERNEWTON.—Thos. Craven, corn factor; Charles Bell, sharebroker.

HEADINGLEY.—George Smith, jun., merchant; George Robinson, linen manufacturer.

LEEDS TOWNSHIP.

MILL HILL WARD.—Thomas Harvey, druggist, Briggate; Geo. Matthewman, jun., woolstapler, Willow Grove.

Saturday, Apr. 11, 1846

Publication: Leed's Times

Volume: 14, Issue: 682

